FIGHTING RAGES IN CITY

Paratroops Dropped; Tanks Move on Town

TUNIS (Reuters)—Tunisia claimed tonight that three French warships have "forced entry into the canal" leading to the huge French naval air base at Bizerte.

(CP From Reuters-AP)

TUNIS—French planes were reported today to have begun dropping bombs in an all-out assault on Bizerte, near the big air and naval base which Tunisia is trying to force France to abandon.

French paratroopers were reported to have been dropped on the city after the bombing attack and fighting was reported going on in the streets.

A Tunisian government communiqué said low-flying planes began dropping bombs shortly before noon local time and that French tanks were moving on the town.

The new assault came shortly after Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba announced he would accept volunteers from other countries in the fight to oust France from the strategic base.

OFFER TROOPS

Algerian insurgent leaders immediately offered to supply soldiers and arms to the Tunisians. The Algerians have some 15,000 well-armed guerrillas in camps along Tunisia's border with French-ruled Algeria.

The Tunisian news agency Tunis Afrique Presse said Tunisian troops still controlled the "nerve centres" of the town of Bizerte but French troops had moved up to about 1,000 yards from the town.

French aircraft were sweeping low over the town, machine-gunning Tunisian barracks. Strong concentrations of French troops also were reported on roads leading into Bizerte.

Bourguiba, meanwhile, disclosed that he has rejected a French ultimatum to evacuate Bizerte town and ordered the Tunisian garrison to resist by all means the French offensive."

Bourguiba also said he has ordered seizure of the French pipeline that carries the output of France's Sahara oil field. The pipeline is at Sakhra, in southern Tunisia, and carried the output of France's Edjele field, 225 miles southeast of the Tunisian border.

French officials in Paris confirmed that fighting was under way in Bizerte and conceded that the Tunisians still were solidly installed in the city.

The French claimed Tunisians attacked several French positions around the Bizerte perimeter and had launched a push toward admiralty headquarters. This attack was repulsed, the French said.

Reuters news agency said the French offensive was launched during the night after a day of fierce fighting in which 110 Tunisians were killed, 600 wounded and 200 captured. French losses were set at five dead.

TO DEBATE CRISIS

A Tunisian communiqué said the French military command planned the "extermination" of the city's garrison which commands a canal leading to the vast lake around which the Bizerte base is situated.

The fighting spread as the United Nations Security Council

Canada Urged To Peg Dollar

WASHINGTON (CP) — The board tended to reduce qualified informants said uneasiness felt by members of the International Monetary Fund urged Canada today to concrete promise to get back to a pegged exchange rate for her dollar which has been floating free for 11 years.

These informants said Canada gave no indication that it would get back to a fixed rate immediately but agreed to hold further consultations with the fund's 18-member executive board at a later date.

The board discussed Canada's new exchange rate policy at a 3½-hour closed morning session. Louis Rasmussen, a deputy governor of the Bank of Canada and board member, represented the Canadian government. He planned to return to Ottawa immediately.

Rasmussen was reported to have assured the board Canada has no intention of seeking an unfair advantage in trade through her new policy of depressing the rate by use of official reserves of gold and American dollars. Canada's main aim, the board was reported to have been told, was to reduce reliance on foreign capital for Canadian development.

Bandits Get $75,000 In Gem Haul

MONTREAL (CP) — Two youthful armed bandits today got away with an estimated $75,000 worth of diamonds after attacking and beating a Montreal wholesale jeweler.

Jeweler Harry Stein was struck repeatedly on the head with the bandits' guns before he gave up the struggle. In their haste to get away the pair dropped their dark glasses and the rope with which they planned to bind Stein.

He was alone in his office when the bandits entered.

Canadian sources said Rasmussen's presentation before

SPACEMAN

Nine minutes after launching, as his space craft re-entered the atmosphere, he reported: "I feel very good. Everything is looking good." Shouting encouragement to Grissom from the ground was the astronaut who preceded him to the threshold of infinity. Shepard was at the vital capsule communicator post in the control centre.

The two fellow astronauts maintained almost constant voice communication throughout the flight. However, communication with the Liberty Bell 7 was troublesome for two brief periods.

The flight was almost as perfect as Shepard's. Shepard travelled 116 miles high and 302 miles downrange in 15 minutes.

Eichmann Drank To Jewish Doom

JERUSALEM (AP)—Adolf Eichmann admitted today he joined his Gestapo chieftains in drinking toasts the day they drew up the plan to exterminate Europe's Jews.

The testimony was extracted by Judge Ishaak Raveh as the trial of the former SS officer for mass slaughter of the Jews nears the end.

Raveh, one of three Israeli justices who will decide if Eichmann hangs, reminded the defendant of the Wansee Berlin conference of Jan. 20, 1942, at which Reinhard Heydrich, chief of the Gestapo and security police, spelled out the doom of the Jews as instructed by Hitler.

The judge noted that after the meeting Heydrich, SS Gen. Heinrich Mueller and Eichmann remained behind.

"Why were you drawn into that as the third man? Why was Eichmann there?" the judge asked.

DRAK BRANDY

"I had to write the minutes of the meeting," Eichmann replied.

"Oh, no, that came later," Raveh said.

"We sat around the fireplace and I had a brandy, no, two; no, three brandies," the defendant said.

By the manner of interrogation, the judge pinpointed what Attorney-General Gideon Hausner has been contending through the 15-week-long trial: That Eichmann as chief of Jewish affairs was just about "the third man"—very near the top—despite his relatively low rank of lieutenant colonel.

Criticize U.S.

Tunisian officials bitterly criticized the U.S. government for not supporting their cause. Some said "the West is finished in Tunisia."

Meanwhile, several thousand Arab demonstrators marched through the streets of Tunis chanting "Death to de Gaulle" and "Give us arms." White-robed women among the crowd shrieked the penetrating Moslem war cry.

CRITICIZE U.S.

Tunisian officials bitterly criticized the U.S. government for not supporting their cause. Some said "the West is finished in Tunisia."

Streams of refugees—white-robed women carrying babies on their backs, men pushing carts with their belongings—cluttered the bomb-pocked highway leading south from Tunis.

Automatic controls then turned the capsule around slowly 180 degrees so the blunt heat shield base led the way toward the sky, with Grissom riding upright and backwards.

At 141 seconds after launch, the bell-shaped, nine-foot tall capsule separated from the rocket, and the escape tower designed to pull the space craft free of the rocket in case of trouble was jettisoned.

Automatic controls then turned the capsule around.

Some told stories of being terrorized by diving French planes and of bombs shattering their primitive homes.

RAIL TUNNEL CAVES IN ENGULFING APARTMENT

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP) — A burning railroad tunnel collapsed Thursday night, swallowing an apartment house and killing a fireman.

The fire broke out late Thursday in the 2,000-foot North-Western Pacific freight tunnel through Puerto Nuevo hill in north San Rafael, 20 miles north of San Francisco.

Police believe the timber shorings may have been deliberately set afire by juveniles.

Fireman Fred Kinsler, 44, had parked his fire truck over the tunnel 300 yards from the northern tunnel exit when heat caused Lincoln Avenue to crack and cave in. Kinsler and his truck plummeted 40 feet into the floor of the burning tunnel.

Minutes later an apartment house bordering the gaping hole was consumed by flames licking up from the cave-in. The 12-unit building, topped into the cavern. It had been evacuated before it caught fire.

Arctic Ship Sunk 13 Await Rescue

WINNIPEG (CP) — A Fort Hearne, sunk by ice Tuesday, are waiting at Bernard Harbour, N.W.T., for transportation to a larger settlement.

Captain L. H. Adey and his 12-man crew were lifted from the sinking vessel near Bernard Harbour — about 200 miles inside the Arctic Circle — by helicopters from the federal icebreaker, Charles Carmall, Tuesday.

The report that the vessel had sunk reached here late Thursday. It was delayed by poor radio communications which between April and September frequently limit radio signals to a 50-mile radius.

The company here had no information on two crew members who were reported to have suffered minor injuries and there was no immediate word on when the crew would be moved from Bernard.

The Fort Hearne, a 382-ton, wooden-hulled diesel vessel which has plied the western Arctic for 13 years, was grounded in 20 feet of water.

The vessel left Tuktoyaktuk, 450 miles west of Bernard Harbour, on her first trip of the season Monday, three days earlier than originally planned.

VESSEL BADLY HOLED

Tuesday, apparently bucking heavy ice floes, the Fort Hearne was badly holed. Capt. Adey nursed the vessel into shallow water before she had to be abandoned.

Lack of salvage equipment indicates it will be impossible to salvage much, if any, of the mixed cargo the Hearne carried.

Council Probes Rockland Sale Legal Snag

At a closed session of a special city council meeting today special city council meeting Thursday a three-man team was appointed to investigate a potential legal snag to sale of a Rockland area site for a luxury 12-storey apartment building.

Mayor-Percy Seurah, city manager C. C. Wyatt and city solicitor T. P. O'Grady were instructed to investigate the allegation and report back.

Linn Gale, 1037 Craigdarroch, claimed that two stone pillars on the 3½ acre property sold by the city for $35,000 to Blake Construction of Vancouver made the deal illegal.

He said they were "structures" within the meaning of the Municipal Act which would require at least one week's advertised notice before a sale was made.

"This was not done," he said in a letter to council, challenging legality of the sale.

ALASKA-B.C. FERRY TALKS HERE TUESDAY

Alaska public works commissioner Richard A. Downing will meet B.C. Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi here next Tuesday to discuss a new ferry service.

Alaska now is spending $32,000,000 on ferries and terminals for service between Haines and Prince Rupert.

The service will go into operation next summer.

Mr. Downing will discuss construction of terminal facilities at Prince Rupert. He will also meet federal district engineer A. W. Walkley in Vancouver.

Alaska is hoping for B.C.-Ottawa co-operation on paying for the terminal, and also wants B.C. to improve its highway south from Prince Rupert.

Mr. Downing said in Juneau that preliminary engineering studies have been completed on Alaska's ferry landing sites, and bids will be sought next month.

Canada Has No Veto

THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT is now considering a question of grave concern to Canada. Should it open negotiations for economic union with the European Common Market?

It was commonly believed, in Canada, when Mr. Sandys conferred recently with the federal government, that Britain asked Canada to accept the marriage of Europe's Six and Seven. This was not true. All Britain sought in Ottawa, and other overseas Commonwealth capitals, was approval of negotiations which might lead to an agreement between the two giant European trade zones.

Of course Britain does not require that approval from anybody. It is quite free to make its own decision, in its interests as it sees them, but it wished the Commonwealth as a whole to understand exactly what it was doing and how its policies might affect all the members' trade.

Whether Britain could secure a satisfactory agreement with the Common Market is not yet clear. The only way to find out is to open negotiations and see whether the Common Market will offer arrangements acceptable to Britain and not seriously damaging to the rest of the Commonwealth. Will the Common Market allow Britain to maintain the tariff-free entry of imports like Canadian wheat and some of the existing Commonwealth preferences? That is the crux of the problem.

The Diefenbaker government, however, does not wish Britain even to explore these possibilities. It insists that Britain must not think of this.

Cadboro Bay Road

FOR YEARS THE UNSATISFACTORY condition of Cadboro Bay Road between Dalhousie Street and the Saanich border has been recognized by the Oak Bay Council.

Unless the council encounters opposition from about 60 of the residents on that stretch of roadway—opposition which must be registered by next Thursday—the municipality intends to rectify the condition through a local improvement bylaw. If such a bylaw is passed, property facing the road will carry about one-fifth of the costs.

Several residents have objected to the plan. They say that the part of Cadboro Bay Road concerned suits them as it is, that they do not want improvements to turn it into a speedway, and that they are against development which will bring heavier traffic past their gates.

On the other hand, those favoring the project, point out the dangers that exist on the road at present. It is narrow, highly crowned in spots, lacks sidewalks, curbs, gutters and drains in others and creates a juncture with Beach Drive north of the Uplands which is a constant hazard to motorists and to pedestrians alike.

The fact that improvement of the road would be of great assistance to some Saanich residents, who provide about one-third of the traffic on it now—is admitted. The road nevertheless lies in Oak Bay and it is far from a good route into town either for Saanich or Oak Bay people who use it.

As the matter goes to a decision, it is to be hoped opponents of the scheme will view the issue in broader perspective. They must ask themselves if they are prepared to perpetuate a surface which, in its present condition, creates a serious traffic hazard. They must ask themselves if the values of their properties will not be enhanced by the improvements that are planned.

The final say is up to them. The council thinks the work should be done. A number of their neighbors agree. There is more at stake here than a simple matter of prejudice. As part of the municipality, they should welcome an opportunity to overcome one of its highway inadequacies.

An Honest Politician

DR. J. M. THOMAS, PROMINENT in the Vancouver Island C.C.F., and formerly one of its candidates for parliament has ventured to criticize his own party organization from admirable motives of honesty.

He was deeply disturbed by an editorial in the C.C.F. News, the party's organ, which tried to minimize the C.C.F.'s defeat in the recent Esquimalt-Saanich byelection. According to The News, the C.C.F. candidate showed impressive strength and encouraged other future candidates all over Canada.

Dr. Thomas immediately repudiated this biased interpretation of plain facts and figures. As he says

A good idea from an honest Island politician.

TV Wants To Be Good

THE TROUBLED CONSCIENCE of the television industry is responding definitely and positively to criticism of its programs, according to reports from the big networks.

The response, however, encounters further troubles for the industry. People in television are in the business to make money. They must, as one Hollywood TV spokesman points out, get $1.01 at least back for every $1 spent. Otherwise they do not remain in the business.

Thoughtful men in the field accept the criticism levelled at television in general for pandering to a public which apparently, in the mass, prefers violence and crime as its entertainment fare to more socially approved programs.

But, notes the Hollywood spokesman, commercial television lives on the circulation it gives its advertising sponsors. "CBS Reports" is generally regarded as a distinguished offering. Yet its ratings are low. Almost any Western outdraws it in viewer response.

From this arises the inevitable question: How do you assure survival by toning up programs, when the public, according to the ratings, prefers them toned down?

In spite of this, there is an apparent wish in the industry to improve the product, to offer something of greater value than blood-and-thunder.

There could be a high moral obligation in this trend among the networks. They might not have "hooked" the big audience to the low grade show in the way that a "pusher" hooks a narcotic addict, but they certainly have been catering to the appetite.

Conceivably it's part of their job to work for rehabilitation of the viewers who have come to be satisfied with the lowest common denominator in programs. They face an uphill pull. Good taste has to be cultivated—and they have a medium which can do much to cultivate it. Low taste, it appears, just comes naturally and grows like a weed when nourished by the stuff too often fed to it on television.

ANIMALS AROUND US

The Seal Family—Return to the Sea

EONS ago certain groups of land mammals gradually returned to the sea and eventually gave rise to our sea lions and seals. What these early ancestors were like no one knows for they have left no fossil record; but their present-day descendants suggest that they were bear-like in character.

In view of this it would seem that the Russian name "sea-lion" is more appropriate than creatures.

Two kinds of seals occur in the Vancouver Island area, the California sealion and the northern sealion. The latter is the more common here and is the one most likely to be seen along our coast line. Sealions may be recognized by their tan or light-brown color and their sinuous, snake-like movements in the water.

'Sea-Serpent' Image

So graceful are they that they are sometimes mistaken for "sea serpents." Swimming is accomplished mainly by the action of the front flippers; the hind flippers act as rudders and stabilizers. On land sealions can raise themselves on the front flippers, rotate the hind ones forward to act as legs and shuffle or run at a surprising rate.

FROM WASHINGTON

Great Leap Backward—Index of Fear

THE most astonishing information that has come through the Iron Curtain in a long time has been brought out of Communist China by very recent peasant refugees.

According to these pitiful runaway farmers, the Chinese Communists have now abandoned the basic principle of their rural "communes" which used to be so proudly described as "Communism in its purest form." The farm land is no longer worked by large peasant labor-gangs under communal direction. Instead, it has been broken up into family-sized plots to be worked by individual peasant families.

Nothing could be more contrary to the original theory and intention of the communes. They were at first intended, not merely to liquidate the last vestiges of the peasants' "individualism," but also to do away with that other reactionary hangover, family life itself.

For the peasants themselves, it must be added, this great leap backward is unlikely to bring much improvement. Although the commune lands have been broken up, the apparatus of the commune remains untouched. The commune is now the landlord. The peasant is now a serf. He is in fact worse off by far than the sharecroppers of the evil Chiang Kai-shek time, since he is both to the land and required to give the commune landlord far more of the crop.

Quotas

Technically the new arrangement is not share-cropping, since a fixed rent in grain has been set for each peasant plot of an acre or two. The quantity is higher for good land, less for poor land; but the rent must be delivered in full even if the harvest is poor. The rents reported appear to amount to between two-thirds and three-quarters of the normal main crop of grain—which makes the old-style feudalists look like soft-hearted philanthropists.

So far, only a very small number of the most recent refugees have described this astonishing change of system. The descriptions, though independently given, have been mutually consistent. But the great majority of refugees from Kwantung closest to Macao and Hong Kong. Thus it is still arguable that the change may be a local phenomenon specially designed to halt the continuing flight from the misery of the Chinese Communist countryside.

Given the rigid character of Chinese Communism, however, it seems much

A male northern sealion is a large animal, attaining a length of 12 feet and a weight of over a ton. Females are much smaller, seldom exceeding 200 pounds in weight.

A near relative, the northern fur seal is also occasionally seen along our coast line. Ordinarily, this animal remains well out to sea and leaves the water only in the Pribilof Islands where it breeds. Rarely a fur seal is seen in inshore waters; such individuals are usually young ones and sometimes they are ill-health.

In view of this it would seem that the Russian name "sea-lion" is more appropriate than creatures.

The sea-lions and the fur-seals are members of the eared seal group, so called because tubelike external ears are present. All members of this group also have the ability to move about on land with some agility which is not true of the seals proper.

The most common seal in the Vancouver Island region is the harbor or hair seal, a member of the earless seal group, so called because external ears are lacking. The hearing organ is however, well-developed and the seal can hear very well despite the lack of a "collecting" organ on the side of the head.

The hair seal is considerably smaller than the male sealion though it may equal a small female in size. It may be recognized by its rounder head and large eyes, reminiscent of a spaniel with no ears. In color it varies from almost

Can Move on Land

The sea-lions and the fur-seals are members of the eared seal group, so called because tubelike external ears are present. All members of this group also have the ability to move about on land with some agility which is not true of the seals proper.

On land it is much less active than any of the eared seals (seals). Because its front flippers are short and because the hind flippers cannot be rotated forward to serve as feet the hair seal is forced to wriggle along on its belly like a gigantic caterpillar. In the water however, it is an extremely graceful swimmer quite able to pursue and capture swiftly moving squid and fishes.

One other seal is occasionally seen in local waters. This is the elephant seal, a huge mammal whose normal range is off the coast of California and southward. For some reason individuals drift northward some years and may be sighted off the west coast of Vancouver Island. In 1960 one was even seen near Victoria.

more likely that a general change of system is being made. Or at a minimum, this looks like a local experiment aimed to prepare for a later general change. If this is correct, what is the reason for the great leap backward?

Too Weak to Work

The immediate, practical reason is easy to discern. According to the best expert estimates, over 20 per cent of the farmers in China's fields are showing the first symptoms of beri-beri, because of prolonged semi-starvation. Labor gangs composed of peasants in this condition cannot be expected to work the fields with much efficiency, when they have no hope of individual reward. But desperate peasant families can be expected to scabble fairly hard, if they simply hope to get whatever is left over, after the state's lion-like share of the crop.

Nothing could be more contrary to the original theory and intention of the communes. They were at first intended, not merely to liquidate the last vestiges of the peasants' "individualism," but also to do away with that other reactionary hangover, family life itself.

'Nobody Wants a New Dictator'

THE other day I read an eminent writer's assessment of the current political atmosphere in Rome. In it he contrasted the present chief of state to Mussolini. He noted that a neo-Fascist party exists, though under a different name, but said it commanded only about 5 per cent of the total votes. Nobody, he added, wants a new dictator.

No doubt the eminent writer has excellent grounds for his statement. And yet—

A little more than a year ago Pat and I were members of a tour party rubber-necking in Rome. We were on one of those side trips in which you pass rapidly through a place and in the twinkling of an eye become an expert on all phases of the society through which you rush. On that warm summer night we stopped no longer than it takes to eat a pizza pie and drink a glass of wine—and we did that in only one spot.

Our guide was a manufactured blonde who proved that while Rome might be eternal, youth is not. She spoke excellent, if slightly harsh English, and she had a laugh Walt Disney borrowed for the witch in Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs.

In the course of our evening tour, with its unforgettable impressions of antiquity, we arrived in a large square. In front of us rose a high building. On the building was a balcony draped with a red banner on which lettering was worked in contrasting color.

The lettering, we were informed, extended a welcome to a big and non-political convention gathered there at the time. In a sort of off-hand way, our guide mentioned that it was placed on the balcony from which Mussolini used to address the multitude.

The guide's patter and routine were exceptionally well turned. She didn't imply any hero-worship of the man who had stood on the balcony. She couldn't afford to among a group of tourists who might abhor Mussolini and all he represented. But she appreciated the fact that most of us would want to see the balcony with that perverse inclination that possesses people to look at indecent postcards, no matter how much they condemn them.

HOME GARDEN

By JACK BEASTALL

Early Picking Cuts the Flavor

A frequent complaint from home gardeners is that berry fruits (raspberries, loganberries, blackberries, strawberries and so forth) are lacking in flavor.

This is something that should not be experienced with home grown fruit, since the gardener has the time to lavish every care on the few plants being grown.

Under field conditions, due to variations in soil and moisture over a large area, it is to be expected that flavor will not be consistent in the entire crop.

From what I have seen (and tasted), lack of flavor is due in many instances to picking the berries before they are fully ripe.

When picking for market it is essential for them to be firm in order to withstand handling and shipping, but for garden crops to be used in the home the fruits should be fully cane-ripe.

DROP EASILY

This condition is indicated when the berries drop into the hand at a mere touch, or part from the cane without having to be pulled. Another factor in reducing flavor is the practice of storing berries in a refrigerator. Home-grown fruits which depend on sunshine for their flavor and sweetness should not be subjected to low

'Watch for Cattle'

The provincial highways department has designed a new warning sign to help prevent cattle and motorists from suffering mishaps, according to Julian Fry, secretary of the British Columbia Beef Cattle Growers' Association.

Instead of stating simply "Cattle at Large", as in the past, it will read "Watch for Cattle on Roadway for Miles".

"Cattle are like small children in their unpredictable actions and must be treated as such," Mr. Fry said.

POINTE AUX ANGLAIS, Que. (CP)—A group of amateur frogmen have hauled seven cannons, believed lost in the sinking of a British fleet in 1711, out of the waters of the lower St. Lawrence River.

The cannon—found Wednesday—were part of the armament of a British fleet under Admiral Hovenden Walker which was headed upstream to attack Quebec. Most of the vessels were sunk or wrecked in a storm off Ile aux Oeufs Aug. 22, 1711.

Ile aux Oeufs is a small island, about three miles off Point aux Anglais, on the north shore of the St. Lawrence, 260 miles downstream from Quebec City.

Point aux Anglais, or "Englishman's Point," apparently got its name from the wrecking of the fleet.

DIFFERENCES FORGOTTEN*Bizerte Creates Unity for Arabs

By ANDREW BOROWIEC

TUNIS (AP)—War flames sweeping Bizerte are forging new Arab unity in North Africa.

France's fighting retaliation to President Habib Bourguiba's drive to expel the French garrison from the big base at Tunisia's northern tip has rallied the support of Morocco, the Algerian rebels, and the United Arab Republic, all of whom have been at odds with the Tunisian leader in the past.

The battle around Bizerte is another serious threat to France's chances of retaining a foothold in the Tunisia-Algeria-Morocco crescent that once was her exclusive preserve.

Western diplomats in the Tunisian capital believe that the entire West could lose its influence in the strategic area.

Bahi Ladgham, Bourguiba's No. 2 man, was given when he summoned U.S. Ambassador Walter Walmsley Thursday.

PLEASURE AFLOAT

She's Aluminum And Quite a Boat

By DON INGHAM

A roomy 21-foot cruiser made almost entirely of aluminum is one of the most novel craft to be built on the Pacific coast this year.

She was built in Vancouver by Benson Bros. Shipbuilding Co. to a design by Charles G. Beeching, 2635 Lincoln Road, Victoria.

Owner is R. T. "Dick" Alexander, a former Victorian, who made his first contribution to marine history here July 4, 1934, when he and his brother Scott were the only finishers in a Victoria-Port Angeles canoe race. (Ten other two-man crews dropped out for one reason or another, and had to be rescued.)

20-Knot Maximum

The boat was launched two weeks ago, and already has more than fulfilled promises made for her. Fitted with a Volvo-Penta inboard-outboard drive unit developing 75 horsepower, she has a top speed of 20 knots.

Fuel consumption at full belt, 5,000 revolutions per minute, is 2.9 gallons per hour. This drops to 1.9 gallons at cruising speed of 4,000 rpm.

Named "Nordic I," she rides well, and the owner credits the Beeching aquafoil hull both for economical operation and stability.

Features of the design are a roomy cockpit, and spacious cabin with large bunks to port and starboard. Sink and gas stove on one side are counterbalanced by a fully-enclosed head on the other.

No Shortcomings

Cabin finish is mahogany, but everything else aboard except the mattress stuffing is aluminum. The outer skin is one-eighth inch thick, far heavier than specifications called for, but causing no shortcomings in performance.

Plates are cut on the diagonal, and are joined with $\frac{1}{4}$ by two-inch riveted butt straps. Angle brazing also is aluminum, but another exception, in addition to the mattress stuffing, is the propeller.

Instead of the customary bronze, it must be stainless steel to avoid electrolytic action which would eat up a conventional wheel.

Nordic deserves attention as the largest aluminum cruiser ever built in B.C. She meets her owner's requirements admirably as a vessel for cruising, fishing and hunting trips, but that happy state is a triumph of design over conditions.

"The aluminum skin need not be one-eighth inch," the designer said, "but that was the only sheet thickness available when we needed it, and we wanted to get on with the building."

FLAMING SHIRT TAILS HELP SAVE FISHERMEN

Two fishermen were rescued in high seas off Albert Head Thursday night after their engine failed and their 14-foot boat took a beating from the waves.

They were Harold Raymond Mitchell, 2809 Shakespeare, and 16-year-old Barry Knight, 2831 Gosworth.

They soaked handkerchiefs and shirt tails in gasoline and set fire to them to attract attention.

Rescue was made by Arthur Fryer, 3800 Ascot Drive, in a 16-footer, with Arthur Worth, 3211 Weatherby, standing by in another 16-foot boat.

The RCMP launch Victoria also slipped from its berth and headed for the scene, but its service wasn't required.

The two fishermen were soaked but unharmed.

Spacemen Invited to PNE

From Times News Services

VANCOUVER — Soviet spaceman Yuri Gagarin and United States astronaut Alan Shepard Jr. are being invited to the Pacific National Exhibition this summer.

Dr. Jack Berry, president of the PNE, said Thursday the exhibition and the city are in the process of inviting the two to Vancouver.

PNE directors will wait until they have definite replies before making plans for a visit.

INSURANCE FIRM SUED

VANCOUVER — An action was started in B.C. Supreme Court Thursday to recover $38,000 from an insurance firm which held the policy on a quantity of jewelry, stolen from the home of Jacob Werner Cohen last Aug. 20. The suit is against North River Insurance Company of New York, through its Vancouver office.

PULP UNION TO VOTE

VANCOUVER — More than 5,000 members of the Pulp and Sulphite Workers Union employed at 10 B.C. pulp and paper plants will vote during the next week on proposals put forward by a conciliation officer for settlement of their wage dispute.

The proposals call for an industry-wide health and welfare plan, one additional paid holiday yearly, a two-cent hourly differential for afternoon and night shifts and four weeks' vacation after 23 years.

IF RAIL SERVICE DROPPED

Plateau Takeover Urged by Socred

IF RAIL SERVICE DROPPED

Plateau Takeover Urged by Socred

COURTENAY — Dan Campbell, MLA for Comox, Thursday advocated the government take over Forbidden Plateau if the E. and N. Railway curtails its daily passenger service between Victoria and Courtenay.

The proposal follows a report that the railway company is seriously considering stopping its passenger service.

Forbidden Plateau is west of Courtenay and bounded by Strathcona Park, and considered a fine recreational area.

Mr. Campbell said in 1887, nearly 2,000,000 acres of land were handed over to the railway on the stipulation a railway service be provided between Courtenay and Victoria.

He maintained the government would be justified in laying claim to the Forbidden Plateau if the railway stops its service.

The MLA said the provincial government is extremely interested in obtaining the area for public use.

Regarding its forestry use he said, Forbidden Plateau is limited because of its high altitude.

"It is really only suitable for a park and recreation," he said.

Argos Click In Late Stages To Down Lions

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Argonauts scored two last-quarter touchdowns in two minutes Thursday night to defeat British Columbia Lions 28-17 in an exhibition football game before a shirt-sleeved crowd of 22,415.

The Lions, who had three touchdowns nullified on clipping and offside, pass penalties, were ahead 17-14 with less than nine minutes remaining in the game when the Eastern Conference team blitzed them with their game-winning touchdowns.

Both coaches — Lou Agase of Argonauts and Wayne Robinson of Lions — just about emptied their benches to get a good look at their over-sized squads in their first real outing of the year. And they put on a real aerial performance for the big crowd.

Veteran Tobin Rose of Argonauts clicked for three touchdown passes to Dave Mann, Stan Wallace and Dick Shatto. Bobby Kunkle hopped off a block of bodies from one yard out for Argonauts' final touchdown. Bill Mitchell kicked four converts.

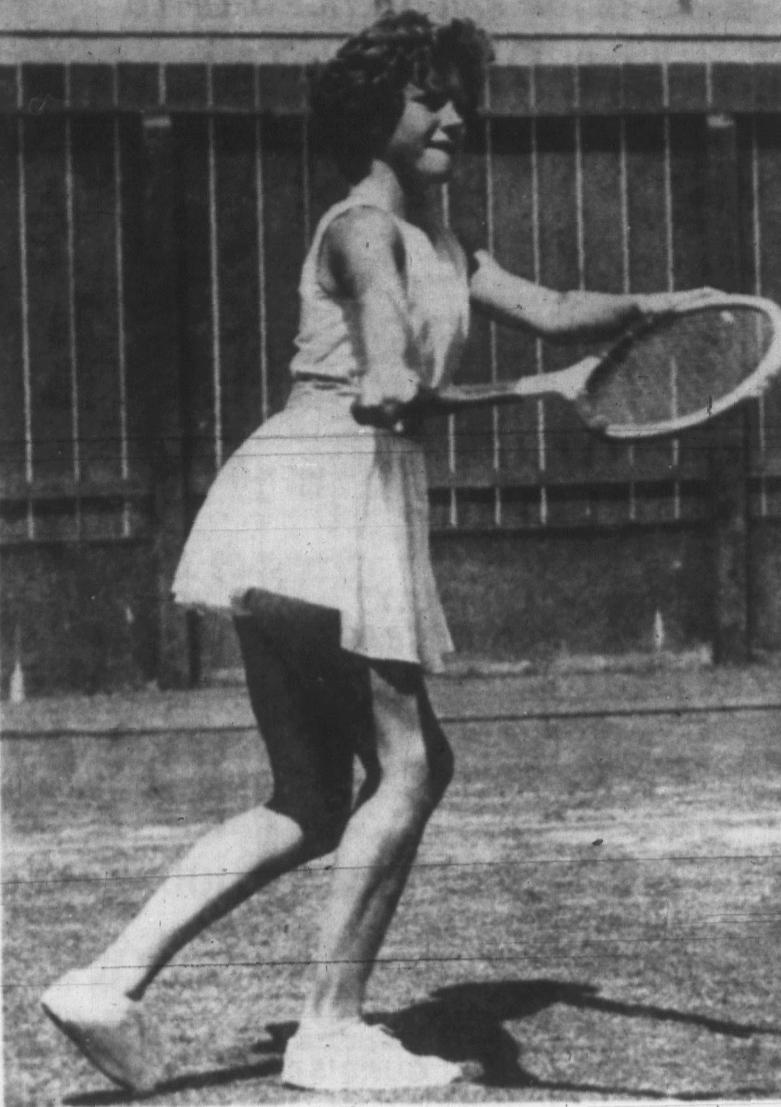

Lions, with rookie import

Bob Schlordeit and Jim Walden sharing the signal calling duties, scored their touchdowns on passes.

The 20-year-old Schlordeit clicked in the second quarter to speedy Willie Fleming and Walden flipped a short pass to Clyde Thomas late in the third that gave the Lions a 17-14 lead. George Grant kicked the converts and also a 40-yard field goal.

Rose and newcomer Lee Farmer were good for 16 of 20 passes and total yardage in the air of 226. Schlordeit and Walden clicked on 14 of 24 for 309 yards.

Neither club showed much of a ground offensive. The Lions gained only 78 yards along the ground, compared with Toronto's 146. Argonauts had a 22-19 edge in first downs and Mann averaged 50 yards on four punts against 37 yards on five by Schlordeit.

Only Two Days To Make Plans For Derby Fun

Time is fast running-out for anglers who have not yet made arrangements to join the fun in this year's Solarium Salmon Derby.

The 1960 edition of Vancouver Island's biggest and most famous one-day fishing scramble goes on stage at 6 a.m. Sunday. Boats are at a premium at Saanich Inlet but a check this morning disclosed that a few rental boats were still available.

And there are also only two more days in which to acquire a derby ticket, which is required by anybody starting in the scramble for fishing prizes.

For the guy or gal who won't be fishing, purchase of a $1 derby ducat gives him or her a chance to win the consolation prize of $300.

As usual, all ticket sellers are working on a voluntary basis, many prizes have been donated by city merchants and all proceeds go to the Queen Alexandra Solarium. Since the scramble is co-sponsored by the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association and the Daily Times was launched in 1946, more than $78,000 has been raised for the crippled children's hospital.

Tickets are available at most city sporting goods stores, Saanich Inlet boathouses and from members of the VSIAA. They can also be obtained by calling radio station CKDQ tonight or at Shellbourne Plaza shopping centre, where the annual derby blitz goes on the air tonight from 4 until midnight.

All Fish Must Be on Floats by 2 P.M.

Everybody is expected to p.m. and to qualify for prizes, all fish must be on the floats of the three weigh-in stations — Hall's, Holder's and the Anchorage boathouses by 2 p.m. A derby ticket must be surrendered with each fish weighed in.

All entrants must use rods and reels and only one rod will be allowed each holder of a derby ducat. Fishing area is limited to Saanich Inlet waters — from Goldstream to a line drawn between Hatch Point and Moses Point, just north of Deep Cove.

Prizes will be presented at the Anchorage at Brentwood, about 3:15 p.m. and everybody is invited to attend the award-giving festivities.

It's all simple and it should be another happy Derby Day. But don't forget your derby ticket.

Derby fishing will end at 2

Par Takes Beating In Milwaukee Open

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Don Massengale, a 24-year-old, Massengale, a former collegiate from Jacksonville, Tex., shot 34-star struggling to make ends meet on the pro golf tour, and veteran Fred Hawkins, fired under-par 30, but managed only to equal a par 35 on the back nine.

With 67s were Tommy Bolt, Paul Harney, Stan Leonard and Nicklaus.

The visiting pros plus amateurs Jack Nicklaus, Sam Carmichael and Archie Dadian, made a joke of par 70 at the North Hills Country Club's 6,410-yard course. Par was shattered by 29 golfers and equalled by 22 others.

Children's Day At Auto Races

The children will have their day at Western Speedway Saturday when the Vancouver Island Track Racing Association stages its "Children's Night".

Among the incentives will be free popcorn for the youngsters and a door prize of a brand new bicycle.

On the track, stock car drivers will be battling for the July Competition Cup. Favored will be hard-driving Billy Foster, who has now scored four clean sweeps this season, but Ray Porttinger, Al Smith and Bob Mawie are expected to be hot on his heels.

Perfection May Be Fine But Marg Plays for Fun

By IAN SMITH

If Marg Maysmith ever starts taking her tennis "seriously," junior tennis players around the province had better watch out.

Miss Maysmith, just turned 14, admits that she plays virtually no tennis at all in the winter. Nor does she have a personal coach.

In this age of increasing sports perfection, this is not just strange, it is practically unheard of. Many fine juniors like Vancouver's 15-year-old whiz, Vicki Berner — practice regularly in the winter and almost continuously in the summer. They are coached by experts and thus have an advantage over play-for-fun youngsters.

Of course, the serious approach can take some pleasure out of the game and make it a form of work. But it is usually considered to be worth the sacrifice.

With Victoria's Miss Maysmith, however, the game is still a game. She's enthusiastic, but she plays it for fun.

So when you look at the record and find that she's won the city championship in her age-grouping twice in the last three years, and the B.C. championship once (and when you consider that she has been playing only four years), begin to wonder what she might do with regular practice.

The pert Central Junior High School student hopes to add another title or two to that string this week in the city junior championships at Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club.

She was heading the right way. Thursday as she battled her way into the semifinals in both the under-15 and under-18 groups.

She was still in the running in the doubles, too.

Her first loss in city championship play in her age group came last year when, just turned 13, she was beaten in three sets by Jill Thomas. But

OUTDOOR REPORT
BY Doug Peden

Good fishing has been the rule rather than the exception in most Solarium Salmon Derbies at Saanich Inlet and Sunday's renewal of the annual one-day fishing festival appears destined to produce its usual quota of good catches.

All boathouses at the Inlet this morning reported good fishing for the past few days and although salmon are inclined to be finicky and frustrating critters, there seems no apparent reason to expect a sudden decline in fishing fortunes.

In addition, the fish seem to be scattered, which means that anglers shooting for Sunday's derby prizes won't have to concentrate their efforts into three or four areas.

Most of the fish being brought in are hardly in the tackle-busting class, but there have been a large number of scrappy salmon between eight and 12 pounds and fair collection of springs of 14 to 18 pounds.

Largest in the past few days was the 27½-pounder Ken Wriggs brought in Tuesday at Brentwood, but boathouse operators this week have listened to several tales of big ones breaking tackle or tossing the hooks.

Among the catches reported at Goldstream are the 12½-pounder taker, Thursday morning by Peter Sallaway, 17½ and 11½-pound sprangs landed Wednesday by Tony Rosin and R. Kirk, and Don Halliday's 17½-pounder of Tuesday.

Len Gordon brought in a 17-pounder Tuesday at Brentwood, Joan Walton also had a 17-pound spring and G. Walker boated 12 and 13-pounders. A Texas tourist, Mr. Finchelwiss, hooked a 14-pounder Wednesday and Thursday morning California's Bill Shrollers and two friends hauled in 12 salmon, the largest nine pounds.

Knowing fish are around doesn't solve the problems connected with fooling the big one of the day. Regulars at Saanich Inlet all have their pet methods and favorite spots and don't care a hoot for any additional advice.

For those who are not inlet addicts, we're passing on some suggestions from four fellows who have proved they know a lot of the answers.

Says veteran Brentwood guide Claude Creed:

"Fishing has been very good during the past two days and there should be some good fish come in Sunday."

"Things can change, but right now there are three or four good places. For bigger fish I'd try around McCurdy Point. The water from The Boulder to McKenzie Bay is also worth a try and Cole Bay has been producing some good fish. Lots of fish have been showing around the Mill Bay marker, but they are usually a bit smaller."

"Minnows have been the most effective lure. I would start with about 150 feet of wire line, used with a planer or two to three pounds of weight, and go deeper as the day progresses."

At his Goldstream Boathouse, Art Hall says:

"They have been catching them all over the inlet, but I'd probably try for a big one in The Narrows or in front of the Stone House. And I'd fish deep after the first hour, probably 250 to 300 feet of wire with a planer or about two pounds of weight."

"Minnows have been the best lures. Several fishermen have lost heavy fish this week and it should take a good big one to win the derby and it could be caught between 8:30 and 9."

Says guide Jimmy Gilbert:

"Some Cowichan Bay fish have been in the inlet during the past week. Some are lying near McKenzie Bay and some at Cole Bay. They usually don't run too deep and can probably be caught with about 150 to 250 feet of wire and a planer."

"There are also a good number of big white sprangs lying on reefs at Willis Point off Indian Bay. You have to go deep for them, possibly as much as 450 feet of line."

"The fish have been hitting the bait and dodger combination, which seems better than straight minnow or strip. Don't be surprised if the derby winner is taken around 1 p.m."

Says guide Bill Kirk:

"There are lots of fish out there, but they don't seem to be concentrated or following any set pattern. I don't think anybody can figure where or when they are going to site, but I'd go for a big one on the reefs between Senanus Island and Cole Bay."

"I'd probably use minnow on one line and strip on the other, starting one line at 150 feet and working down and the other at 375 and working up until I hit fish. I wouldn't be surprised if the winner was caught around 9:30 or 10."

For the record, it should be mentioned that some previous derbies have been won by anglers fishing in unexpected places and using lures the experts wouldn't look at twice.

Any way you look at it, it shapes up as a wide-open scramble for prizes Sunday at Saanich Inlet.

Tugmen Back In Second Slot

Foul Bay Tugmen beat Nanaimo 10-5, at Nanaimo Thursday to regain second place in the Senior "B" Lacrosse League as Bill Wilson fired four goals.

Ed Kowalyk, Jack Reid, Keith Lawrence, Fred Mair and Gary Lawrence got one apiece for the winners. Ray Biggs, Joe Manzini, Bob Shires, Lloyd Sherry and Terry Rodway divided Nanaimo scoring.

Lease Expires Quickly On Vancouver Squad

NEW WESTMINSTER — Vancouver's lease on the Inter-City Lacrosse League penthouse expired quickly.

A third-quarter scoring outburst was the eviction notice New Westminster used here Thursday night as the Royal City squad regained first place with an 11½ victory over Nanaimo.

A crowd of about 3,200 saw New Westminster rap in four unanswered goals in the third quarter to coast to the win that sent them a point ahead of Vancouver.

Vancouver's 12½ conquest of Victoria the previous night club was led by veterans Jack Blonda, Skip Mackay and speedy Bob Allan. Blonda and Allan each had two goals and two assists while Mackay knocked the Westminsters out of first place for the first time this season.

Other Nanaimo scorers were Forward Paul Parnell paced Bob Bateman, Ed McDonald and Tom McVie. The rough over Nanaimo. He scored game exploded in the final three goals while Bill Wilkes quarter when Blonda received and Jack Barclay added two minor penalty, a misconduct and a match misconduct after

The much-improved Nanaimo arguing with a referee.

DELEGATE'S CLAIM

SCHOOL COULD SOLVE 'TEEN SEX PROBLEMS'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Children should get an early basic understanding of the nature of sex at school, a conference on elementary education was told Wednesday.

That way, said Lorne E. Brown, an associate professor at the University of British Columbia, they will be able to work out teen-age problems much more easily.

He said trivias should be cut from school health education and replaced by such topics as greater appreciation of the human body, use of a proper vocabulary dealing with sex organs and pictures of the nude body at an early age "so the body becomes wholesome thing which can be viewed without shame and embarrassment."

$20 Million Refit For New Destroyers

OTTAWA (CP) — A modernization program for the seven St. Laurent class destroyers—the first was commissioned less than six years ago—will begin early next year and cost up to $20,000,000, authoritative sources said Thursday.

Chief aim of the conversion program is to fit the destroyers with helicopter landing platforms.

LABOR CONCERN

Hurry-Up Call On Centre For Elderly

Efforts to provide recreation facilities for senior citizens through government aid will be too late for many old people, Victoria Labor Council was told Wednesday.

Senior citizens need a downtown meeting and recreation centre, for some of them are very old and "will not live very long," said painter's union delegate Gus Gildemeister, who is also vice-president of the Senior Citizens Council.

He commended the Silver Threads Service for petitioning the government to provide these promised facilities and felt they would succeed.

But it will not be soon enough and will not be in a downtown location.

AVAILABLE

Certain locations, such as empty stores, are available and near the main streets, he said, and if the public is informed "maybe something will be done before too many more pass on."

The delegate suggested organized labor "could be prevailed upon to do something in this regard," such as giving money for renting a place.

Meanwhile, council secretary A. W. Toone volunteered to represent labor on a committee being established by Silver Threads to look into a government-assisted centre for the aged.

DELEGATE'S CLAIM

Teamsters Lured By FBI 'Spies'

Attractive young women were sent out by the FBI to entice delegates at the recent Teamsters' International convention in Miami, a Canadian delegate said here today.

Edward Lawson, president of Joint Council of Teamsters Local 36, covering B.C., was one of four provincial delegates to the convention which re-elected James Hoffa to head one of the most powerful unions.

In a visit to Victoria from Vancouver headquarters on union business, Mr. Lawson also denied that the convention's decision to raise teamster dues was by unanimous consent.

He said most of the Canadian delegates and many Americans, representing about 250,000 teamsters, were opposed.

ALL WARNED. All convention delegates were warned about the FBI full membership has a sound pension scheme. Besides, competing unions such as Railwaymen, who apparently were assigned to men can offer prospective business, Mr. Lawson said.

There were quite a few of them, too, but I didn't encounter any," he said. He was more concerned, about 100 delegates spoke against the proposal to make $5 the minimum monthly dues, Mr. Lawson said.

There were so many speakers anxious to be heard on the subject that Hoffa—who chaired most of the convention personally—twice ruled against closing debate and finally heard most of these after about five hours at the microphone.

This session wound up in the early hours of the next morning, the delegate said.

Canadian teamsters were against the increase because in many locals not even the smallest town had a pension plan.

Two of the increased revenue was for pensions for teamster officers.

Mr. Smith wrote to Seattle last October asking if he could get good hotel rooms for himself and his family when they visited the fair.

This happened to be the first inquiry for accommodation, so fair officials decided to give the Smith family a free tour of the northwest.

They signed up auto companies to provide cars, gasoline companies to fill the tanks and they laid out a three-week itinerary.

Then as a publicity stunt they decided to invite all Smiths to Seattle on Sept. 2.

Anyone named Smith is welcome at a special Smiths Day to be held on the site of the Seattle World's Fair on Sept. 2.

They will be guests of the management.

Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton B. Smith of Rock Springs, Wyoming, who prompted the idea, will visit Victoria Aug. 23 and 24 with their two daughters.

It happened this way:

Mr. Smith wrote to Seattle last October asking if he could get good hotel rooms for himself and his family when they visited the fair.

Two of the launchers will go to the surface-to-surface missile training battery at Camp Shilo, Man. The other four will go to the operational missile battery at Pictou, Ont.

When the latter battery has been fully trained on the weapon, it will join the Canadian Infantry Brigade group in West Germany.

The Honest John will be the first weapon with nuclear capability to be taken into the inventory of Canada's armed forces.

Other such weapons to follow are the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile, CF-101 jet interceptor and CF-104 low-level jet bomber.

Foreign Capital Controls Large Portion of Canada

Mines with nearly $60,000 for development before the end of this month. A further $60,000 shares have been optioned to Noranda at prices ranging up to 60 cents with sub-options to Cominco accounting for 172,500 shares.

It is understood that Noranda will put up 60 per cent of the cost of the $40 million smelter. There are also reports that contributing producers, such as Orchan, will share in the smelter profits.

PLYWOOD GROUP AIMS FOR COMMON MARKET

VANCOUVER (CP)—Plans to open field offices in Paris and Hamburg were announced by the B.C. Plywood Manufacturers' Association Thursday as part of an all-out sales drive aimed at Europe's Common Market countries.

General manager John Armstrong said the association hopes to introduce B.C. plywood to these countries for use in agricultural building, packaging and marine construction.

The association was fully aware of possible tariff increases but "we must export and solutions will have to be found to these tariff problems."

Manufacturing Drop Offsets B.C. Gains

Fewer unemployed and gains in natural gas and the fishing industry were offset in B.C. this summer by a 7 per cent drop in manufacturing and a decline in timber scaled.

The B.C. trade department's monthly business report for July issued today, shows that at the end of June 44,000 persons were unemployed, compared with 45,000 at the same time in 1960.

But it also shows the seven per cent drop in factory shipments of manufactured goods.

Latest cash figure available for March, shows a total for the year of $459,481,000, compared with $487,167,000 in 1960.

LONE FELINE CAN KEEP CLEAR WHOLE BLOCK

Hungry Cats Sure-Fire 'Ratters'

By AB KENT

One house cat can keep a city block rat-free—as long as he doesn't get too much to eat at home.

This is the word from Oak Bay sanitary inspector Paul Cunningham (a cat owner), who reports complaints of rats in the municipality down 50 per cent from last year.

William Gair, who handles extermination for Oak Bay, said there have been only about 70 complaints to date compared with 150 last year.

This is due largely to co-operation between municipal sanitation departments and citizens who report seeing rats in their houses and gardens and on the waterfront.

"If they keep it up we can expect to get 90 per cent of the rats," the exterminator said.

There is no doubt, however, that cats keep the rat population down, and one cat ranges pretty thoroughly over a square block, Mr. Cunningham said.

The trouble is, many people tend to overfeed their cats, and "Pussy won't hunt if he is lazy from being fed too much."

Rats will nest indoors and out, choosing compost heaps, especially where vegetable and fruit peelings and other food scraps are left; beneath steps, patios, porches, old sheds and chicken houses.

After the Willows (exhibition and race park) burned and was torn down, there was an exodus of rats to other buildings in Oak Bay, including the Uplands.

Rats in the Uplands "used to be very bad," and were a problem even up to two years ago, Mr. Gair said.

Since Jan. 1 of this year there have been only eight rat complaints from the whole Oak Bay waterfront area, including the Uplands.

The exterminator uses warfarin bait—the safest and most effective rat poison—if outdoors, or sets traps if indoors.

His tip for keeping rats away is simply: "Keep your places clean."

And perhaps get a hungry cat, just to be sure.

Who's hungry?

REPORTER DRAFTED

'Hey, George,
We've Got A Volunteer!'

By HAL JONES

Eye-witness to the battle on Vancouver Island's fire-lines Thursday was a Times reporter who joined the fray.

With water tank and spray gun, I helped put out one of the six fires flaring in the Langford-Sooke area.

It started out as a routine assignment to Millstream Road for a look at damage caused by an 80-acre blaze now under control.

I got a very close look indeed: on the way I was "drafted" to join the crew fighting another small fire.

I found the half-acre blaze on tinder-dry woodland; within minutes a B.C. forest service crew arrived.

I settled back happily to watch the battle. But I was too close.

"Who are you?" asked one of the crew.

"I'm from The Times," I replied. "And I'm here to . . ."

"Hey, George—we've got a volunteer," shouted the crewman.

"No, no," I stammered. "I'm just looking on."

REAL CLOSE

"Well take this (strapping a water tank on my back) and this (shoving a spray gun into my hand) and take a real close look," he said with a knowing grin.

For the next hour, about a dozen crew members—mostly UBC students, a few volunteers and a reporter squirmed, hacked and shovelled at the tongues of flame crackling through the brush.

Residents of two nearby homes waited anxiously to see if the blaze would spread; but it was quickly under control.

MORE HELP

Then more help arrived in the shape of two large water tankers and the second battle of Millstream Road was all over bar the shouting.

There was no indication as to how the fire started, but a forest service official asked me if I had "seen anyone in the area" when I spotted the blaze.

A forest officer in the field has authority under provincial legislation to enlist volunteers, and to draft assistance if needed to fight fires.

Only exemptions are persons under 18 or over 65 years of age, and doctors.

In compensation, the government pays its recruits 75 cents an hour for their help.

MONTE ROBERTS

If there is one thing I hate to do, it is to interrupt My Favorite Wife when she is talking.

It is not only rude to interrupt MFW, it can be downright dangerous.

But I felt compelled to inject myself into the conversation the other day when she was explaining to a friend of ours about where we live at the present time.

"We're out at Portage la Prairie," MFW said, when I felt the need to interrupt.

"Not Portage la Prairie, Portage Inlet," I said.

"Well, Portage something," said My Favorite Wife, fixing me with a steely stare. "And it is very nice where we live, right by the lake, and all."

I should have known better, but I interrupted again.

"Not a lake," I said, "an inlet."

"Yes," MFW agreed, with surprising amiability. "It's actually the inlet part of the lake."

"No, no, nonono," I said.

"Not the inlet part of the lake," said MFW, sweetly.

"Then I guess I'm wrong. It must be the outlet part of the lake."

"It's not a lake at all," I said.

"It's water, isn't it?" said MFW. "Lakes have water, there's water right out there, so we live on a lake."

"Please," I said. "Just because there's water, this doesn't make it a lake."

"There are different kinds of water," I went on, "and the kind of water we live near is tidal water."

"Tidal waters," I said, "have tides. Sometimes the tide is in, sometimes the tide is out."

Then how do you explain," asked MFW, "that when I come into the house, the water is out?"

"But when I go out of the house, the water doesn't always come in?"

"Tides coming in and out," I said, "Have nothing to do with you. Tides are governed by the moon."

"A likely story," said MFW.

"But true," I said.

"I suppose I have to believe you," said MFW. "So when the moon's out, the tide is out?"

"Not necessarily," I said. "There have been many times when the tide rose while the moon was out."

My Favorite Wife raised a scornful eyebrow in my direction, then returned her attention to our friend.

"As I was saying," she said, "where we live there's water, and its mighty lake arose."

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Weekly outing of the junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society has been cancelled owing to the intermediate section leaving on Sunday from the Monterey Restaurant parking lot at 8 a.m. for a week-long camping trip to Miracle Beach.

Six weeks of training are nearing an end for the 1st Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, and officers and men will return to Work Point Saturday, July 29.

Travelling by government ferry, they are due at Swartz Bay at 12:40 p.m. but relatives are requested to meet them at Work Point Barracks.

A 30-day leave period will commence with the arrival of the battalion.

All participants in the city-wide parks program fishing derby, which takes place July 28 at the Ogden Point breakwater, must have a participant's crest.

This crest may be picked up at Eaton's department store in either the sporting goods department or the boys' wear department, from now to the day of the derby.

Boys and girls both may participate.

ASK The TIMES

Q. An old lady in our town died at the age of 101, always hoping she would hear from the Queen. Now our grandmother is 98. How do the messages from the Queen originate?—J.R.W.

A. The procedure is too complicated to be explained in a confined space, since it involves a long series of official actions. The best way to ensure that a congratulatory telegram will be sent is to notify the secretary, Government House, who will initiate the proceedings.

Anyone wishing a question answered to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times," should send it in on the first or second page, in one of the columns of the legal problems. No will attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

N.Z. Budget Brings Minor Tax Relief

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (Reuters) — The National party Thursday presented its first budget since taking control of the New Zealand government last year.

Although the budget makes on savings, no changes in personal tax rates it allows reductions in estate and gift duty and abolishes the companies' excess retention tax. It also extends existing tax exemptions.

'OMINOUS PROBLEM'

More 'Far East' Teaching Urged

SASKATOON (CP) — Educational efforts to make Canadians familiar with the Far East were urged Thursday at the Canadian Teachers Federation annual conference.

Dr. J. F. Leddy, vice-president of the University of Saskatchewan and a member of the national commission on UNESCO, said the Western nations are faced with an ominous problem in the East.

This stemmed largely from lack of knowledge of the area which may be the most serious source of strain and danger to world peace in the rest of this century.

Dr. Leddy said a prime objective of UNESCO is to provide more information about the Far East, a field which has been largely neglected in Canada by universities and other educational institutions.

MUST END IGNORANCE

The former utter disregard and complete ignorance of the East is something we must dispel in Canada."

Canada was behind in this, and only the Universities of British Columbia and Toronto and McGill University were providing courses to meet this need.

Canada was short of persons who could teach the languages or who could speak authoritatively on the historical background of Eastern nations.

He said the educational problems of India, for example, are more basically important than the political problems posed by China.

Levins said that in 14 large districts in the province not one pupil in the primary grades is on an accelerated learning program. In the same districts 12 per cent of the pupils in primary grades are on a retarded program.

Pair Ordered Shot

MOSCOW (AP) — The Supreme Court has decreed death by shooting for two currency speculators, the Soviet news agency Tass has reported. The two, named Y. Rokotov and V. Faibishenko, had been sentenced by a lower court June 15 to 15 years in prison.

LARGELY UNKNOWN

But apart from poet Robert Service, humorist Stephen Leacock and romantic novelist Mazo de la Roche, the authors were largely unknown outside Canada.

The literature dates from 1750 to 1961.

Canada's cultural life gets a kinder mention on another page of The Guardian from Colin Mason, a regular contributor on arts topics.

Writing on the different attitudes in North America and Britain towards arts subsidies, Mason says Britain could learn much from the way the Canada Council uses its funds to expand cultural activities in the community.

Organizations needing public funds had first to prove themselves willing to help themselves by their own fund-raising, and any organization that "slackened off" after receiving a grant would soon find itself in trouble.

CANADIAN YOUTH CONFESSES

'Urge to Kill' Vented on Stranger

SUNNY VALE, Calif. (UPI)

A French-Canadian youth

was arrested as a vagrant. Police described Griffin as a "likeable fellow" who came to Sunny Vale from Canada about eight months ago and was living with an uncle there.

Griffin was employed as a grudge he bore since being arrested as a vagrant.

"I had an urge to kill someone," he said. He had wanted to kill a police officer because he had been a grudge he bore since being arrested as a vagrant.

Pierre Joseph Tomaro, 22, of Hull, Que., walked into Sunny Vale police headquarters several hours after the body of Carlton Griffin, 40, was found in a ditch in nearby Woodside.

Griffin, a Menlo Park back, was lying on his back. Three bullets from a .45 calibre pistol were in his head and neck, police said.

White And Pink Theme

Arrangements of white gladioli and pink stocks created the floral background for a lovely wedding Saturday afternoon when Miss Joyce Margaret Whitehead and James F. Mattson exchanged vows before Rev. H. Emery in St. Luke's Anglican Church.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Thomason Whitehead, 2120 Beach Drive, and Mr. and Mrs. Matthew B. Mattson of Vancouver.

Rose-pink and white color theme was carried out by the bride's attendants, Miss Lany Bent, Penticton, maid of honor, and Miss Carli Westinghouse, bridesmaid, who wore afternoon length gowns of rose-toned satin styled with fitted bodices, oval necklines and sequin-sprinkled headresses en masse. Bouquets of anemones in pastel shades highlighted their ensembles.

Completing the attractive trio was flowergirl, Miss Nicole Delbrouck, Vancouver, who wore a floor-length dress also of rose satin. She carried a tiny posy bouquet of anemones.

Erie Edwards played wedding music as the golden-haired bride entered the church on the arm of her father. She wore an Oleg Cassini original gown of silk satin that swept into a regal chapel train at back. Fitted bodice was enhanced with an oval neckline, with front panel extending from neckline to floor. A dainty coronet of silk, intertwined with sequins, held a fingertip veil of illusion silk. Bride's only jewelry was a strand of pearls. White roses were in her bouquet.

Best man was Lucien Delbrouck, Vancouver, while Barry Adams from England, and Bill Hoverman, Kelowna, ushered. Oak Bay Beach Hotel was scene of a reception where Mr. and Mrs. Mattson cut a three-tiered wedding cake that was topped with roses and white bells. Harold Francis proposed a toast to the bride's happiness.

For travelling on a honeymoon to Mexico, the bride donned a pure silk ensemble in gold tones accented with black accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses.

The newlyweds plan to make their home at 1245 Plateau Drive, North Vancouver.

SHOPPING GUIDE

A Weekend Family Treat: Delicious Fruit Candies

By PENNY SAVER

Friday is always food day for Penny Saver, and it seemed time for breakaway from the usual staples that make up the Friday column. You must get tired of hearing how to fry this, grill that, and whip to fluffiness the other. It's time for a housewives' holiday, reading-wise at any rate.

This morning I was given a sample nibble of the most delicious pectin fruit candy, made here in Victoria with only true fruit flavors. Jellied candies just melt in the mouth. Regular price is 85 cents a pound, and they are on special this weekend at 49 cents.

The same candy shop specializes in ginger delights, also a pectin candy made from Chinese ginger and syrup. These tangy morsels are priced at 85 cents a pound, 43 cents for half a pound.

Another nippy sweetmeat is the sugared cinnamon stick, a colorful and flavorful asset to finish off the dinner party. These are $1 a pound, 50 cents the half-pound. Extra strong humbugs, for those whose nostalgic yen for the Old Country has never died, are selling at 60 cents a pound.

A new tinned fruit cocktail from Australia is now on the food market. This contains a zesty mixture of pineapple, pawpaw, bananas and passion fruit, sealed in orange juice. A 15-ounce can is priced at 29 cents.

Another dessert treat is tinned papaya cubes. This very rich fruit would be perfect as an ice cream topping. A 15-ounce tin sells at 27 cents.

If you would like to know where Penny shopped today, please give her a ring at EV 2-3131.

Debut of the Bathing Suit Dress

NEW YORK (UPI) — One way musical, "Camelot." There cape silhouette for day, and designer who defends the was a strong medieval influence—a favor of hers plastered-on fit to feminine apparel is Luis Estevez, whose latest offering is the bathing suit dress.

This, for the benefit of girl watchers, is made of stretch fabric and fits like a wet bathing suit. Its aim is to make every woman look like Marilyn Monroe, said the Cuban-born Estevez.

Clinging clothes long have been the trademark of Estevez who holds several fashion awards. So are his plunging necklines, which for fall and winter expose most of the back in evening wear.

DEAR ABBY . . .

She Wanted Out

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: In a fit of temper I told my husband I wanted a divorce, and he took me up on it. I never dreamed he would go to a lawyer and get things started so fast because we have three children who are his whole life.

His lawyer told him to move out of the house. He is gone now, and I don't know what to do. I don't want a divorce, and am sorry I brought it up. How can I get my husband to come back and stop the divorce action, without sacrificing my pride?

TOO HASTY

DEAR ABBY: Forget your pride. Run, don't walk, to the nearest phone. Ask him to forgive you, and please come home. If you are lucky enough to get him back, monitor your mouth, or you could find yourself living alone and not liking it.

My old lady is a real kook. She looks through fashion magazines and thinks if she doesn't look like those scrawny, underfed beanpoles she is too fat. She is 5 feet 7, and could carry a lot

Girl Guides

Richmond Group No. 68—

After 10 days under canvas at their new campsite on Salt Spring Island, Guides from Richmond have returned to the mainland. Under direction of Mrs. K. Udy, girls worked for outdoors badges, a four-mile hike to Vesuvius Bay earning them their hiking badge. Overnight camps were spent at Madrona Bay and at Mouat Park. Future weekend trips to the new camping ground are planned.

White And Pink Theme

Arrangements of white gladioli and pink stocks created the floral background for a lovely wedding Saturday afternoon when Miss Joyce Mattson exchanged vows before Rev. H. Emery in St. Luke's Anglican Church.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Thompson Whitehead, 2120 Beach Drive, and Mr. and Mrs. Matthew B. Mattson of Vancouver. Rose-pink and white color theme was carried out by the bride's attendants, Miss Lany Bent, matron of honor, and Miss Carol Westinghouse, bridesmaid, who wore afternoon length gowns of rose-toned satin styled with fitted bodices, oval necklines and sequin-sprinkled headresses en masse. Bouquets of anemones in pastel shades highlighted their ensembles.

Completing the attractive trio was flowergirl, Miss Nicole Delbrouck, Vancouver, who wore a floor-length dress also of rose satin. She carried a tiny posy bouquet of anemones.

Erie Edwards played wedding music as the golden-haired bride entered the church on the arm of her father. She wore an Oleg Cassini original gown of silk satin that swept into a regal chapel train at back. Fitted bodice was enhanced with an oval neckline, with front panel extending from neckline to floor.

A dainty coronet of silk, intertwined with sequins, held a fingertip veil of illusion silk. Bride's only jewelry was a strand of pearls. White roses were in her bouquet.

Best man was Lucien Delbrouck, Vancouver, while Barry Adams from England, H. Stokes, 490 West Ober Avenue, and Bill Hoverman, Kelowna, ushered.

Oak Bay Beach Hotel was refreshments.

Debut of the Bathing Suit Dress

NEW YORK (UPI) — One designer who defends the plastered-on fit to feminine apparel is Luis Estevez, whose latest offering is the bathing suit dress.

This, for the benefit of girl watchers, is made of stretch fabric and fits like a wet bathing suit. Its aim is to make every woman look like Marilyn Monroe, said the Cuban-born Estevez.

Clinging clothes long have been the trademark of Estevez who holds several fashion awards. So are his plunging necklines, which for fall and winter expose most of the back in evening wear.

Estevez stood almost alone with sexy fashions among the fall and winter collections presented last week.

New Penicillin Heals More

Fourth A-Sub Sails

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — The Theodore Roosevelt, the fourth nuclear-powered Polaris-armed submarine, left Charleston Harbor Wednesday for global patrol duty. The 380-foot sub took aboard 16 thermonuclear warheads Polaris missiles at arming base, then sailed under secret orders. The other three Polaris subs armed for action are at sea.

LONDON (Reuters) — The British Medical Journal announces the discovery of a new form of penicillin which would permit the drug to be extended to use in fighting "a wide range of infections."

The journal says the new drug, called penbritin, could be used to fight infections hitherto beyond the healing power of penicillin.

The new drug is free from side-effects and has "very low toxicity."

French Start All-Out Bizerte Assault

FIGHTING RAGES IN CITY

Paratroops Dropped; Tanks Move on Town

TUNIS (Reuters)—Tunisia claimed tonight that three French warships have forced entry into the canal leading to the huge French naval and air base at Bizerte.

(CP From Reuters-AP) TUNIS—French planes were reported today to have begun dropping bombs in an all-out assault on Bizerte, near the big air and naval base which Tunisia is trying to force France to abandon.

French paratroopers were reported to have been dropped on the city after the bombing attack and fighting was reported going on in the streets.

A Tunisian government communiqué said low-flying planes began dropping bombs shortly before noon local time and that French tanks were moving on the town.

The new assault came shortly after Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba announced he would accept volunteers from other countries in the fight to oust France from the strategic base.

OFFER TROOPS Algerian insurgent leaders immediately offered to supply soldiers and arms to the Tunisians. The Algerians have some 15,000 well-armed guerrillas in camps along Tunisia's border with French-ruled Algeria.

The Tunisian news agency Tunis Africaine Press said Tunisian troops still controlled the "nerve centres" of the town of Bizerte but French troops had moved up to about 1,000 yards from the town.

French aircraft were sweeping low over the town, machine-gunning Tunisian barracks. Strong concentrations of French troops also were reported on roads leading into Bizerte.

Bourguiba, meanwhile, disclosed that he has rejected a French ultimatum to evacuate Bizerte town and ordered the Tunisian garrison to resist by all means the French offensive."

Bourguiba also said he has ordered seizure of the French pipeline that carries the output of France's Sahara oil field. The pipeline is at Sakkira, in southern Tunisia, and carries the output of France's Edjoule field, 225 miles southeast of the Tunisian border.

French officials in Paris confirmed that fighting was under way in Bizerte and conceded that the Tunisians still were solidly installed in the city.

The French claimed Tunisians attacked several French positions around the Bizerte perimeter and had launched a push toward admiral headquarters. This attack was repulsed, the French said.

Reuters news agency said the French offensive was launched during the night after a day of fierce fighting in which 110 Tunisians were killed, 600 wounded and 200 captured. French losses were set at five dead.

TO DEBATE CRISIS A Tunisian communiqué said the French military command planned the "extermination" of the city's garrison which commands a canal leading to the vast lake around which the Bizerte base is situated.

The fighting spread as the United Nations Security Council continued on Page 2

Canada Urged To Peg Dollar

WASHINGTON (CP) — Qualified informants said the International Monetary Fund urged Canada today to get back eventually to a pegged exchange rate for her dollar which has been floating free for 11 years.

These informants said Canada gave no indication that it would get back to a fixed rate immediately, but agreed to hold further consultations with the fund's 18-member executive board at a later date.

The board discussed Canada's new exchange rate policy at a 3½-hour closed morning session. Louis Rasmussen, a deputy governor of the Bank of Canada and board member, represented the Canadian government. He planned to return to Ottawa immediately.

Rasmussen was reported to have assured the board Canada has no intention of seeking an unfair advantage in trade through her new policy of depressing the rate by use of official reserves of gold and American dollars. Canada's main aim, the board was reported to have been told, was to reduce reliance on foreign capital for Canadian development.

Canadian sources said Rasmussen's presentation before

Allied Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — State Secretary Dean Rusk called in the ambassadors of Britain, France and Germany today to open urgent allied conversations on proposals by the Kennedy administration for military preparations to meet expected Soviet pressures against West Berlin.

Bandits Get $75,000 In Gem Haul

MONTREAL (CP) — Two youthful armed bandits today got away with an estimated $75,000 worth of diamonds after attacking and beating a Montreal wholesale jeweler.

Jeweler Harry Stein was struck repeatedly on the head with the bandits' guns before he gave up the struggle. In their haste to get away, the pair dropped their dark glasses and the rope with which they planned to bind Stein.

He was alone in his office when the bandits entered.

SPACEMAN ON BAHAMAS

GRAND BAHAMA ISLAND (AP) — Smiling and seemingly relaxed, astronaut Virgil I. "Gus" Grissom arrived on this island today for 48 hours of rest after his space flight.

He stepped down from an orange and silver plane to be greeted by James E. Webb, administrator of the National Space Agency.

"Congratulations on a wonderful job," Webb said.

Grissom rode to the aluminum hospital to take medical examinations and start giving his full report on the flight.

Flight Success But Capsule Lost at Sea

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Astronaut Virgil Grissom survived a 5,280-mile-an-hour rocket journey in space today, then made a dramatic swim for his life as his capsule sank to the bottom of the Atlantic Ocean.

Loss of the $2,000,000 space craft and its equipment will not delay the Project Mercury program, which is aimed at placing a man in orbit a few months from now and on the moon later, an official said.

Films of Grissom and his control panel went down with the capsule, but Robert C. Gilruth, Project Mercury director, said most of the information desired was received through telemetry. Earlier, a national space agency information officer had indicated to reporters that loss of the space craft might delay the program.

When he reached Grand Bahama Island later, Grissom explained that he removed a safety pin on the hatch preparatory to opening it when a helicopter was overhead. About 2½ minutes later, he said, the "door just went" and the men and they fled.

LONE FELINE CAN KEEP CLEAR WHOLE BLOCK

Hungry Cats Sure-Fire 'Ratters'

By AB KENT

One house cat can keep a city block rat-free—as long as he doesn't get too much to eat at home.

This is the word from Oak Bay sanitary inspector Paul Cunningham (a cat owner), who reports complaints of rats in the municipality down 50 per cent from last year.

William Gair, who handles extermination for Oak Bay, said there have been only about 70 complaints to date compared with 150 last year.

This is due largely to cooperation between municipal sanitation departments and citizens who report seeing rats in their houses and gardens and on the waterfront.

"If they keep it up we can expect to get 90 per cent of the rats," the exterminator said.

There is no doubt; however, that cats keep the rat population down, and one cat ranges pretty thoroughly over a square block, Mr. Cunningham said.

The trouble is, many people tend to overfeed their cats, and "Pussy won't hunt if he is lazy from being fed too much."

Rats will west indoors and out, choosing compost heaps, especially where vegetable and fruit peelings and other food scraps are left; beneath steps, patios, porches, old sheds and chicken houses.

After the Willows (exhibition and race park) burned and was torn down, there was an exodus of rats to other buildings in Oak Bay, including the Uplands.

Rats in the Uplands "used to be very bad," and were a problem even up to two years ago, Mr. Gair said.

Since Jan. 1 of this year there have been only eight rat complaints from the whole Oak Bay waterfront area, including the Uplands.

The exterminator uses warfarin bait—the safest and most effective rat poison—if outdoors, or sets traps if indoors.

His tip for keeping rats away is simply: "Keep your places clean."

And perhaps get a hungry cat, just to be sure.

Who's hungry?

100 Men Fighting Rampaging Fire At Matheson Lake

A hundred men and five bulldozers today battled an explosive fire which overnight raced through brittle dry timber in a Sooke beauty spot.

It is one of four fires started in the area Thursday and it strengthened growing suspicion that an arsonist is at work.

The 85-acre blaze, off Gillespie Road near Matheson Lake, is out of control.

HARD TO FIGHT

A B.C. forest service officer called it "extremely curious" and very difficult to fight over rough terrain.

"It is a very beautiful area of second growth," he said.

The fire started at 5 p.m., roared over 40 acres by 10 p.m., and now covers 85 acres; its smoke is drifting over Victoria.

Three other fires were started within two miles late Thursday. Three "cats" and 30 men are still mopping up the worst, called the "Hut Fire," which razed 10 acres.

RCMP were called Thursday to investigate possibility of arson, but they have not yet issued a report.

Another serious fire in the Sooke-Langford district, off Millstream Road, is still burning over 80 acres, but 85 men and three bulldozers have it ringed and under control—after a four-day battle.

It is the closest blaze to homes, but the forest service officer said there is no danger to them unless a very strong wind springs up in a new direction.

HIGH HAZARD

The whole district is extremely dry.

"It is drier on southern Vancouver Island than for a good many years and the fire hazard is very high," said the government official.

A spark of any sort would start a fire in the bush.

The danger is expected to increase with the hot weather.

There has been no specific discussion of closure shutting off the woods to the public and industry—he added, but "it is always under consideration."

LIGHTNING

Elsewhere in the province, the hazard is fairly high, although not as dangerous as in the island area.

There were lightning storms in the Southern Prince George and Cariboo plateau areas overnight, but no reports of fire strikes have been received. Search planes were expected to patrol these areas later today.

FOR STONETOWN

'Ditching' Drill Set For Thursday

A department of transport weather ship and an RCAF aircraft will carry out a simulated "ditching" drill off Brothie Ledge next Thursday.

The exercise will take place between 4 and 8 p.m., about six miles out from the Ogden Point breakwater.

The weather ship is CMS Stonetown, in port between periods of duty on Station Papa, about 900 miles west of Cape Flattery, where part of her job is to act as watchdog for civilian and military air planes.

PRACTICE

The exercise is planned to give her crew practice in aiding a plane which is compelled to hit the water due to engine failure or other mishap.

Stonetown will leave her berth at 4 p.m., and the exercise will start at about 5 p.m.

Although the practice will take place well out in the strait, parts will be visible to shorewatchers as flares are dropped and very pistols fired.

The aircraft involved is an Albatross, a big amphibian plane from the RCAF station at Sea Island.

'Hey, George, We've Got A Volunteer!'

By HAL JONES

Eye-witness to the battle on Vancouver Island's fire-lines Thursday was a Times reporter who joined the fray.

With water tank and spray gun, I helped put out one of the six fires flaring in the Langford-Sooke area.

It started out as a routine assignment to Millstream Road for a look at damage caused by an 80-acre blaze now under control.

I got a very close look indeed, on the way I was "drafted" to join the crew fighting another small fire.

I found the half-acre blaze on tinder-dry woodland, within minutes a B.C. forest service ice crew arrived.

I settled back happily to watch the battle. But I was too close.

"Who are you?" asked one of the crew.

"I'm from The Times," I replied, "and I'm here to . . ."

"Hey, George—we've got a volunteer," shouted the crewman.

"No, no," I stammered, "I'm just looking on."

REAL CLOSE

"Well take this (strapping a water tank on my back) and this (shoving a spray gun into my hand) and take a real close look," he said with a knowing grin.

For the next hour, about a dozen crew members—mostly UBC students, a few volunteers and a reporter squirmed, hacked and shovelled at the tongues of flame crackling through the brush.

Residents of two nearby homes waited anxiously to see if the blaze would spread, but it was quickly under control.

MORE HELP

Then more help arrived in the shape of two large water tankers, and the second battle of Millstream Road was all over bar the shouting.

There was no indication as to how the fire started, but a forest service official asked me if I had seen anyone in the area when I spotted the blaze.

A forest officer in the field has authority under provincial legislation to enlist volunteers, and to draft assistance if needed to fight fires.

Only exceptions are persons under 18 or over 65 years of age, and doctors.

In compensation, the government pays its recruits 75 cents an hour for their help.

Who's Afraid Of Harmless Old Grizzly?

Campers take note.

There isn't a dangerous animal or bird in Canada, according to one of Canada's most outstanding wildlife photographers visiting Victoria today.

Sixty-five-year-old Hugh M. Halliday who has spent a lifetime "shooting" wildlife with a camera, said: "Dangerous animals only exist in the human mind."

Mr. Halliday should know. He has climbed trees and scaled cliffs to take pictures of eagles and hawks in their nests. He has trekked through forests in search of wolves, elk, moose and bear.

WREN ATTACKER

He has come to the conclusion that the only bird which will sometimes deliberately attack man is the tiny wren.

He even classes the grizzly bear as "non-dangerous."

"Of course if you accidentally step on him you may run into trouble," he said, "but the grizzly has done business with man and doesn't want to have anything to do with him."

The photographer has spent weeks playing hide and seek with grizzly bears. Every time he approached one, the animal would make a quick get-away, Mr. Halliday came to Victoria to see Dr. Clifford Carl, curator of the provincial museum, and to take some pictures of B.C. birds.

MONTE ROBERTS

If there is one thing I hate to do, it is to interrupt My Favorite Wife when she is talking.

It is not only rude to interrupt MFW, it can be downright dangerous.

But I felt compelled to inject myself into the conversation the other day when she was explaining to a friend of ours about where we live at the present time.

"We're out at Portage la Prairie," MFW said, when I tried to interrupt.

"Not Portage la Prairie, Portage-inlet," I said.

"Well, Portage something," said My Favorite Wife, fixing me with a steely stare. "And it is very nice where we live, right by the lake, and all."

I should have known better, but I interrupted again.

"Not a lake," I said, "an inlet."

"Yes," MFW agreed, with surprising amiability. "It's actually the inlet part of the lake."

"No, no, nonono," I said.

"Not the inlet part of the lake?" said MFW sweetly.

"Then I guess I'm wrong. It must be the outlet part of the lake."

"It's not a lake at all," I said.

"It's a water, isn't it?" said MFW. "Lakes have water, there's water right out there, so we live on a lake."

"Please," I said, "Just because there's water, this doesn't make it a lake."

"There are different kinds of water," I went on, "and the kind of water we live near is tidal water."

"Tidal waters," I said, "have tides. Sometimes the tide is in, sometimes the tide is out."

Then how do you explain," asked MFW, "that when I come into the house, the water is out?"

"But when I go out of the house, the water doesn't always come in?"

"Tides coming in and out," I said. "Have nothing to do with you. Tides are governed by the moon."

"A likely story," said MFW.

"But true," I said.

"I suppose I have to believe you," said MFW. "So when the moon's out, the tide is out?"

"Not necessarily," I said. "There have been many times when the tide rose while the moon was out."

My Favorite Wife raised a scornful eyebrow in my direction, then returned her attention to our friend.

"As I was saying," she said, "where we live there's water, and it's mighty lake arose."

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Weekly outing of the junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society has been cancelled owing to the intermediate section leaving on Sunday from the Monterey Restaurant parking lot at 8 a.m. for a week-long camping trip to Miracle Beach.

Six weeks of training are nearing an end for the 1st Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, and officers and men will return to Work Point Saturday, July 29.

Travelling by government ferry, they are due at Swartz Bay at 12.40 p.m., but relatives are requested to meet them at Work Point Barracks.

A 30-day leave period will commence with the arrival of the battalion.

All participants in the city-wide parks program fishing derby, which takes place July 28 at the Ogden Point breakwater, must have a participant's crest.

This crest may be picked up at Eaton's department store in either the sporting goods department or the boys' wear department, from now to the day of the derby.

Boys and girls both may participate.

ASK The TIMES

An old lady in our town died at the age of 101, always hoping she would hear from the Queen. Now our grandfather is 98. How do the messages from the Queen originate?—J.R.W.

A. The procedure is too complicated to be explained in a confined space, since it involves a long series of official actions. The best way to ensure that a congratulatory telegram will be sent is to notify the secretary, Government House, who will initiate the proceedings.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem to the "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions and answers dealt with must be of general interest.

Refund Starts On New Meters

At least one motorist applied for a parking fine refund today as 26 parking tickets were torn up following discovery the new dime meters are technically illegal.

City Hall sources indicated that refunds will be made on parking fines at the dime meters that began going up on city streets Monday.

But motorists who paid their dimes and did not over-park are out of luck—there will be no refunds of the nickel overcharge. Part of the reason is that a flood of requests for nickels would follow and it would be virtually impossible to pick out the legitimate ones.

PATROLLING CONTINUES

Commissionnaires are still patrolling the streets and marking tires with chalk to catch over-parkers. Tickets are being issued for parking more than one hour at the same meter even if it is a free one.

Tickets also are being issued for failing to put coins in the old meters that still charge
